TERMS OF SERVICE

Regular hourly work is classified as web-development and copy work. Design work, such as photos, videos, custom infographics, icons, and logos, may have additional costs.

Full website development is billed per project. Projects include all work in the scope of our quote. We do not provide a breakdown of labor or hours of work required, as our full-site development projects are all-inclusive quotes. Turn around is based on the client's specifications.

In such cases where the client is a corporate business with board members (multiple feedback) or the client does not specifically know what they need in advance, then we will design the site as we move along, the price will be adjusted accordingly.

The payment schedule for regular projects is billed with a 50% non-refundable down payment, with the balance paid upon completion and sign off from the client before the launch of the project.

Larger projects (more than $5000) are divided into milestones with pre-arranged conditions for ongoing payments, with the final payment being made at the deployment of the project.

All websites include a free 90-day warranty period. During this time, we fix any defect free of charge. After the warranty period, we charge for bug fixes, patches, etc. The client's failure to notice bugs or notify us of issues is something the client is responsible for. We do not check the application daily and monitor things unless agreed upon.

The client is responsible for the hosting and maintenance of the website. Hosting and domain name registry are not included in the price. We can consult and implement hosting, domain name registry, webmail, and analytics at our hourly fees.

Any virus or malware cleanup required is the responsibility of the customer. We offer monthly and quarterly support packages that include core and plugin updates for security purposes as well as ongoing development.

For things such as virus removal or implementing new features in an existing framework, we quote those items as a project and do not work on these ventures on an hourly basis.
